

In the depths of these mountains, under the ever-watchful gaze of their ancestral spirits, lies the grand city of Gleaming Halls. Its name is a testament to the intricate and radiant craftsmanship that illuminates every corner of this vast underground metropolis. Great pillars carved from solid granite stretch to the high cavern ceilings, adorned with precious gems that reflect the flickering light of countless torches and forge fires.

Dwarven artisans work tirelessly in their workshops, producing works of art that are sought after by kings and collectors across the land. Their forges, fueled by the unyielding heat of the earth's core, are the birthplace of legendary weapons and armor, each piece forged with meticulous care and enchanted with powerful runes.
